

Slovakia

Slovakia is a central European country, mostly mountainous, surrounded by five countries with a larger area: 49,000km<sup>2</sup> for Slovakia, 79,000 for the Czech Republic (north-west), 323,000 for Poland (north), 600,000 for Ukraine (east), 93,000 for Hungary (south) and 84,000 for Austria (west).

Two important dates

From 1918 to 1992 Slovakia was merged with the Czech Republic into Czechoslovakia, after World War I and the dismantling of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. In 1992, after the collapse of the Soviet Union, the two states decided to divorce by mutual consent ('Velvet Divorce').

Slovakia acceded to the EU in 2004.

Topography

The map below shows us two things. Slovakia is, after Romania (53%), the second country with the largest area in the Carpathian Mountains (17%), then Ukraine (10%) and Poland (9%). Carpathians are residual in four other countries: Serbia and Hungary (4%), the Czech Republic (2%) and Austria (less than 1%).

And secondly, Carpathians occupy the major part of Slovakia. A more precise map is required.

We see:

-The Inner Western Carpathians ('2' in light green on the simplified map above) start in the west with the Little Carpathians ('Malé Karpaty' in Slovak) and occupy the whole central part: Little and Great Fatra (Malá et Veľká Fatra), the Tatras Mountains (Tatry) along the border with Poland, the Low Tatras (Nízke Tatry), the Slovak Ore Mountains (Slovenské rudohorie) in the centre and the Lučenec-Košice Depression (Juhoslovenská kotlina) in the south, at the border with Hungary.

The highest point lies in the Tatras Mts.: Gerlachovský štít (2654m). Kriváň is lower (2494m), but is more symbolic for the Slovaks, to the extent of appearing on 1, 2 and 5c Euro coins.

-The Outer Western Carpathians ('1' in dark green on the simplified map above) follow the border with the Czech Republic and Poland. They are a part of the Beskids and their highest point lies at Babia Góra (1723m).

-The Eastern Carpathians go through the north-east of the country, outer ('3' on the map) and inner ('4'). The first line the eastern part of the border with Poland (Nízke Beskydy). Busov is their highest point.

The rest of the territory is occupied by low lands ('nížina' in Slovak). On the detailed map above, there are three:

- Záhorská nížina, north from Bratislava, along the border with Austria and the Czech Republic,
- Podunajská nížina, the Slovak part of the Danubian Plain,
- Východoslovenská nížina, in the south-east.

Blue tourism

The flow length of Danube in Slovakia is 172 km (left bank) and 22km (right bank). The Challenge is close to it at the top of Devínska Kobyla (20) and close to the junction of the Danube and the River Hron (Rázcestie na Bajtavu, 30).

Upstream the Váh splits in two: the Biely Váh (White Váh), that rises near Štrbské Pleso Resort (74), and the Čierny Váh (Black Váh), that rises north from Kráľova hoľa, flows through the Lower Reservoir (that bears its name) at the foot of the Sedlo Priehyba (49) and under the Upper Reservoir (048). The junction is located near Kráľova Lehota.

Climbs of the list that start in the Váh Valley:

Between Liptovský Mikuláš and Žilina: Jasná (45), Prievalec (44), Polom (33)
Between Žilina and Trenčín: Kresáň (2), Kríž Butkov (4), Vršatec (3), Homôlka (7)
Before the junction with the Danube: Havran (22), Vyhliadka Šianec (24)

Branč

Topoľčiansky hrad

Okolo Slovenska

The Tour de Slovaquie is a stage race (currently 5), that exists since 1954. Most of the winners are Slovaks (3x Škoda, for instance) and more generally it was an East European race (victories of Ivanov in 1987, Tonkov in 1989 or Honchar in 1993).

In recent years the race was upgraded and the level of the winners improved (Tratnik in 2017, Alaphilippe in 2018, Lampaert in 2019 and Sagan in 2020).

<https://www.okoloslovenska.com/?lang=en>

The profiles of the Tour are often hilly with a great number of KOM (more than 150 from 2012 to 2022), but the asphalted dead end summits in the Tatras are never used.

Štrbské pleso is the most visited place (6x KOM and 2x uphill finish). In the Challenge, this pleso is nothing but a step towards an upper pleso (74-Popradské pleso).

In 2012, the Čierny Váh Upper Reservoir (48) was another uphill finish (1157m).

The most frequent KOM in the list:

4x: Fačkovské sedlo (6), Homôlka (7), Havran (22), Železná Breznica (59), Červená studňa (65) and Vernár (84) ;

3x: Sedlo Čertovica (47), Maly Šturec (52) and Magurské sedlo (73) ;

2x: The Manínska Gorge (Manínska tiesňava) in Kresáň (2), Skýcov (23), Mrvova Kykula (called 'Oravská Lesná', 36), Rovná hoľa (37), Donovaly (51) and Sedlo Prašivá (62).

Červená studňa is located above Banská Štiavnica, cobbled town where an uphill finish took place in 2022 (2nd stage). The winner was Archie Ryan before Vansevenant and Fortunato.

Several races of the 2000s disappeared too quickly: the GP Bradlo (from 2000 to 2009), the GP Hydraulika Mikolasek or GP Jamp (from 2005 to 2010) and the GP Kooperativa (from 2005 to 2009).

Visegrad 4 Bicycle Race - GP Slovakia

The Visegrad Group is an alliance of four Central European countries: the Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland, and Slovakia. Since 2014 it results in a cycling race in four chapters, one per country.

In the Slovak chapter, that finishes in Nová Baňa, the riders have to climb Bôrka (66) and its fearsome 1,1km at 13% and 3hm at 15, 16 and 17%.

L'Etape Slovakia

ASO organized an 'Etape du Tour' (117km and 1700m elevation gain) north from Bratislava. There are 4 KOM, among them Pezinská Baba (17) and Kamzík (19).

Bratislava Gran Fondo

The Gran Fondo is longer than the Etape (130km), but less difficult: 1100m elevation gain and 3 KOM (17-Pezinská Baba 2x and 16-Červený Kameň Castle).
